

Someone I
Love died

© Autism Little Learners

1

Someone I love died. I feel very sad. It is okay to cry.

© Autism Little Learners

2

Most of the time, people die
when they are old or sick.

3

Sometimes younger people die.

6

When a person dies, they do not come back.

© Autism Little Learners

7

I can look at pictures and think about all the good memories I have.

© Autism Little Learners

4

There are times when people die suddenly. This is a shock.

© Autism Little Learners

5

It might be because of an accident or because of an illness nobody knew that they had.

© Autism Little Learners

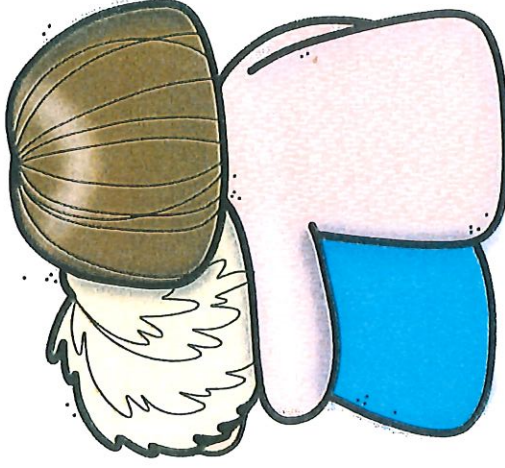

8

After somebody dies, there is usually a funeral. A lot of people come together to remember the person who died.

© Autism Little Learners

9

Many people cry at a funeral. There are also a lot of hugs.

© Autism Little Learners

At the funeral, the body of the person who died will be in a special wooden box called a coffin. The coffin goes the front of the church and some friends and family may place things on the coffin.

After the funeral, the coffin will be closed and one of two things will happen, depending on what the person who died asked for. Sometimes, the coffin will be placed into a deep hole in the ground. Remember, the person who died cannot feel anything anymore. There will be a gravestone where the person is buried. Sometimes, the body will be taken to a special place where it will be turned into a kind of powder called ashes. The ashes will be kept in a pot called an urn.

10

When I am missing my loved one who died, I can talk to my family. They can give me hugs and help me.

© Autism Little Learners

11

It is very sad when people die.
I may feel very sad for a while.
Slowly, I will start to feel better.

© Autism Little Learners